

Venus Shot Is Made, Flight Takes 109 Days

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — An off-course Oarner 2 spacecraft rocketed into space today on an intended 109-day trip to explore the planet Venus. Despite a severe trajectory error, scientists were hopeful they could correct most of it by remote signals to an on-board motor.

Improper rocket performance released the 447-pound spacecraft on a course that, if followed, would cause it to miss Venus by more than 600,000 miles when the two make their closest approach Dec. 14.

This is far from the 10,000-mile distant fly-by that the National Aeronautics and Space Administration had planned.

Just how much the spacecraft can be commanded back to a Venus rendezvous course will not be known until more precise tracking information is available. This may be several days.

Jack James, Mariner manager or NASA's jet propulsion laboratory, said the on-board motor has the capability of making a 500-90 mile correction depending on the position of the spacecraft.

This would mean Mariner 2 could be jockeyed onto a path to pass within 100,000 miles of Venus — too great a range for its sensitive instruments to do much probing beneath Venus' heavy blanket of clouds.

But there was a chance refined tracking data might show the present course to be less than 100,000 miles off and that the probe therefore could pass closer to the mysterious bright planet.

James said to be any value in exploring Venus, Mariner 2 would have to approach within 25,000 miles on the sunlit side. He said important data would be gained about interplanetary space between Earth and Venus even if the craft missed by a greater distance, but the main goal of the experiment would be lost.

The key to straightening Mariner 2's trajectory is a 37.3-pound motor which will be fired by ground radio signal eight days after launching when tracking computers have precisely defined the spacecraft's position, attitude and velocity. Then the vehicle will be more than one million miles away from Earth on its intended 100 million mile junket past Venus and into endless orbit about the sun.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced that both stages of the rocket appeared to perform normally.

If Mariner 2 works as planned it will race within 10,000 miles of Venus next Dec. 14 and its instruments will take the first close-up look at secrets which the bright planet conceals beneath a perpetual blanket of surrounding clouds.

It could help solve one of the most puzzling mysteries of the solar system: Can life as we know it exist on Venus?

6 Children Perish in House Fire

CLOVIS, Calif. (AP) — The six children of Ben and Betty Funk died in a fire that destroyed their new home in this Fresno suburb Sunday despite valiant rescue tries by the father and neighbors.

One teen-age neighbor smashed through a window into the blazing home and, with hands slashed by broken glass, handed out four of the children. But they apparently were dead at the time.

The father and others broke more windows in desperate rescue attempts but were turned back by intense heat.

Fire Chief W. E. Riley said afterward the window smashing may have worsened the situation. "It let in wind drafts," he said.

The dead children were: Dennis, 9; Howard, 8; Charlotte, 7; Shirley, 6; John, 3; and Deborah, 21 months. Deputy Coroner Walter Sechler said all had suffocated.

Authorities said cause of the fire was not immediately apparent and may not be learned for several days, pending check of the ashes.

Funk, 32, a cabinet maker, was awakened by his wife, 28, at about 1:30 a.m. Sunday with a cry of "fire."

He broke a window of their bedroom and tumbled outside, cut by glass fragments. Then Funk and his brother, Leonard, 20, who had been sleeping in the back yard, pulled Mrs. Funk through the window.

Her leg was broken when it became entangled between frame and sill.

Russell Welch, 19, who lives two houses away, heard screams of alarm, ran to help and battered in through a window.

He told newsmen later he found three of the children in bed and two others on the floor.

Freighter Is Loading at Memphis

MEMPHIS (AP) — A seagoing freighter that may make this Mississippi River city an inland ocean port began loading its first cargo today.

The 600-ton, 180-foot diesel vessel, a converted Army freight ship, will make regular runs from here to ports in Mexico and Central America.

Owner Jesse Brent of Greenville, Miss., said the "Ruth Ann" will operate as a tramp steamer, free to head for any port shippers may designate.

The gray and white freighter arrived here, 732 miles upstream from the Gulf of Mexico, after a 210-mile run from Greenville, where it was refitted.

The payload trip downstream, scheduled to start Tuesday, could scarcely come at a worse time. The Mississippi, shrunken by upstream droughts, is so low it is showing its sandbars.

Dredges have been busy at several points, chewing away sandbars to maintain the nine-foot channel necessary for river barge traffic.

Ruth Ann draws 9½ feet of water when empty. She needs 11½ feet when loaded. But she is small and a lot more maneuverable than the big tows that have been running aground regularly during the past week.

Capt. W. T. Fornalski said the ship rubbed bottom three times during its trip from Greenville but was never in danger of getting stuck.

The Ruth Ann is powered by two 600-horsepower diesels that operate twin screws. She carries a crew of 12. She will operate as part of Brent's newly formed Memphis Caribbean Lines, S. A.

Cargo from here would include farm machinery, new or used cars, frozen chickens, rice or drugs. The ship would pick up such items as bananas, beef, mahogany, frozen sea foods and other Central American produce.

Brent said he was listing the ship as a tramp because if it were registered as a commercial carrier it would have to follow a fixed itinerary.

"I can't compete with the big shippers," he said. "I have to be able to draw up my own schedule for each trip and go where my customers want."

Blames Russia for Trouble at Berlin Wall

MOSCOW (AP) — The United States, in a note today, held the Soviet Union responsible for shootings and disorders along the Berlin wall and again invited it to a four-power conference to deal with the problem.

The note, delivered to the Foreign Office today, replied to a Soviet note to the United States Friday which protested stoning of Soviet troop buses in West Berlin and warning that "necessary measures" would be taken.

"The U.S. government understands the concern of the Soviet government about the stone throwing at Soviet personnel," the American note said, "but the Soviet government cannot expect to escape censure for, or to avoid the consequences of, permitting brutalities to occur in the sector of the city for which it is responsible."

The note cited what it called the "wanton provocations" in the Eastern sector.

"It should not be necessary to remind the Soviet government," it said, "that the present tensions in Berlin have been caused by the illegal erection of the wall and the senseless cruelty of the police of the Soviet sector."

The note was delivered less than 72 hours after the Soviet note was received, setting something of a record in exchanges between East and West Berlin.

The note called attention to the shooting of an East German youth Aug. 17 by East German police, who let him bleed to death without aid. It recalled also that on Aug. 23 "another young German was shot in the back by the police of the Soviet sector."

He was taken to a West Berlin hospital but died there.

Grounded Tow Finally Freed

MEMPHIS (AP) — A river tow, hard aground on the shrunken Mississippi for three days, was freed today as barges worked round-the-clock to keep river traffic moving.

The U.S. District engineers office reported all river craft on the move in this area this morning with the freeing of the vessel Mariner and her tow. They had been perched on a sandbar upstream from here since Friday.

Col. Edmund Kirby-Smith, district engineer, said dredges were working day and night to maintain the regulation 9-foot channel depth throughout the Memphis District. The district stretches from Cairo, Ill., to Rosedale, Miss.

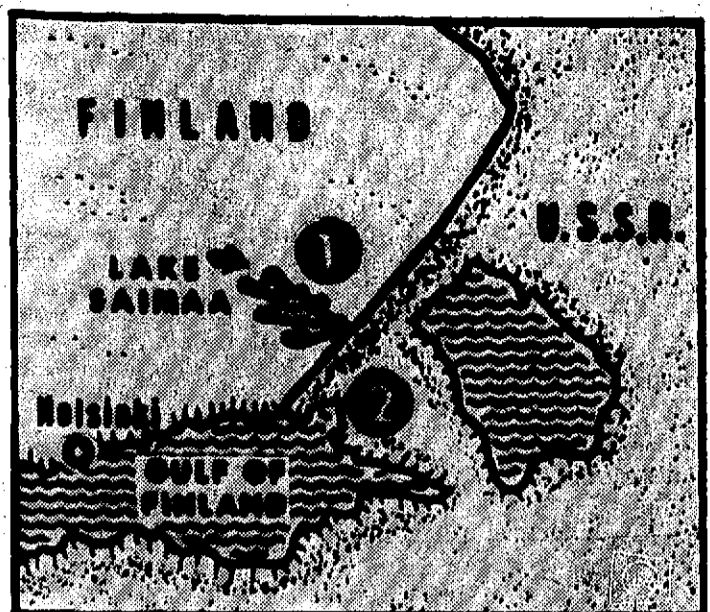

He said it was still difficult to navigate big tows through shallow water in some areas but that the situation should begin to return to normal in a few days.

This is an increase of 4.8 per cent or $116,631, over receipts for the same period last year.

Scrapping Guard Plan Is Approved

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today he approves of a Congressional subcommittee report issued Sunday advising the Pentagon to a scrap Reserve and National Guard reorganization plans.

Faubus said he and other state leaders did not object to the reorganization of the Guard and reservists units but opposed the manner in which it was to be done. Arkansas stood to lose several units under the original plan.

The Sunday subcommittee report encouraged the Army to eliminate obsolete and unnecessary reserve units, but only with the understanding they would be replaced with outfits trained and equipped to meet modern requirements.

Faubus said today, "In any military force the most important thing is morale. You can have men and all kinds of equipment, but if the men don't have faith that is required and the confidence in what is being done, then you don't have an effective military force."

He added, "Therefore, when any reorganization is attempted that disrupts the whole organization of Guardsmen and reserves, and is done without consideration of the units themselves and the men that make up the units, it becomes more harmful than good."

Stuttgart Leader Hurt Fatally

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Dayle Wiley, a 58-year-old prominent Stuttgart business and civic leader, was fatally injured Sunday near DeWalls Bluff when his pickup truck left a bridge and overturned into LaGrue Bayou.

The death of the widely known conservationist brought to seven the number of persons dying violently in Arkansas during the week ended last midnight.

State Police said Wiley, who was in his second term as president of the Arkansas Wildlife Federation, may have been checking rice irrigation pumps at the time of the accident which occurred 13 miles south of DeWalls Bluff on a county road.

Wiley had been manager of the Arkansas Irrigation Co. of Stuttgart for the past 18 years.

In other weekend deaths: Bertha Lee Williams, 51, Negro of Marianna, was fatally injured when struck by a truck driven by Marion Campbell inside the Marianna city limits.

Benjamin J. Russ, 48, McNeil Negro, was fatally injured Sunday when his car overturned and burned on U.S. Highway 79 near McNeil. He died Sunday.

Frank Marin, a 67-year-old Lam-brook Negro, died Sunday when his pickup truck went out of control and crashed on state highway 44 near Helena.

The body of 13-year-old Eugene Harris was recovered from the Mississippi River at Helena Sunday. The Negro teen-ager drowned Saturday while swimming with a group of friends. The body was found 10 feet from shore.

During the week, four persons died in traffic accidents and one each died in a fall, when struck by a chair and by drowning.

Walks Away From Prison Farm

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Cummings Prison Farm authorities said Walter McWilliams, 31, a Negro, walked away from a work gang today.

Officers said hounds are being used to search for the Meridian, Miss. native, who was in the prison for burglary and grand larceny.

McWilliams was described as being six feet tall and weighing 180 pounds. He was wearing a white shirt and khaki trousers. Officers said the escapee had a half-inch scar on his chin and two-inch scar at the base of his right thumb.

West Offers Test Ban With No Inspection

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP) — The United States and Great Britain urged today that the Soviet Union agree to a treaty banning nuclear tests in the atmosphere, under water and in outer space, without inspection.

The two Western nuclear powers laid before the 18-nation Geneva disarmament conference two treaty proposals—one for an outright ban on all nuclear testing, including those underground, and the other for a less comprehensive agreement banning only those in the water or above the ground.

President John F. Kennedy and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said in a joint statement that "unlike underground testing, nuclear tests in the atmosphere, underwater and in outer space 'can be effectively verified without on-site inspections.'"

Throughout the long Geneva nuclear negotiations the Russians have steadfastly balked on all proposals for on-site inspections of tests.

Kennedy and Macmillan expressed in their joint statement a strong preference for a clear-cut ban on all nuclear testing.

"They said: 'For the safety and security of all of us, this deadly competition must be halted.'"

But they said they are prepared to conclude an early agreement, covering the more limited field, "if this represents the widest area of agreement possible at this time."

Andrew T. Hatcher, assistant White House press secretary, in handing out the Kennedy-Macmillan statement, refused to amplify it in any way.

"The statement speaks for itself," he said.

Youth, 16, Sentenced for Two Killings

MARION, Ark. (AP) — Gervyl Basil (Buddy) Nichols, 16, was sentenced to 21 years in the State Penitentiary today for the shotgun slayings of two playmates in 1960.

The defense entered a plea of guilty to two counts of second degree murder. The charge against Nichols had been first degree murder, but the state accepted the reduced charge and plea.

Nichols was sentenced to 21 years on each count, the terms to run concurrently, by Crittenden Circuit Judge Charles Light of Paragould. Nichols was silent at his sentencing.

In his first trial, attorneys for Nichols, then 14, attempted to show he was insane at the time of the killings. The trial ended in September, 1961, with a deadlocked jury.

Doctors at the State Hospital ruled Nichols without psychosis during the period between the first trial and the plea today.

Nichols was charged with the murder of Dub Naylor, 11, and James Wallace Melton, 9, both of West Memphis, on a bayou bridge near the West Memphis city limits.

The boys were killed by shots from a 410 gauge shotgun. Police said Nichols later turned himself over to authorities in West Memphis and said he killed his playmates because, "I wanted to die."

"The court said Nichols will be eligible for consideration for parole in seven years, and could get out of prison at the age of 29 with good behavior."

Scattered Rain Doesn't Affect Crops

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Agricultural Extension Service said today that scattered rains received in the state since Friday have had little effect on the Arkansas cotton crop.

Some individual fields will be helped by the moisture, the service said, but the overall estimate of crop production was not altered.

Dry weather that began early this month made the crop about three weeks early, the service said earlier, and lowered production estimates from 1.53 bales to one bale per acre.

Picking is well underway in some areas of the state, but mostly by hand, the service said. Most of the picking has been in the extreme southwest and northeast sections of the state, more than the delta, it reported.

The Employment Security Division said today that the hot, dry weather has caused many fields to bloom early. Though out-of-area workers are being recruited, there are many unfilled orders for labor in the delta area, the ESD said.

Farmers in the Forrest City area said by this week picking would be two-thirds underway.

The local ESD office said teams are being sent into Lee, St. Francis, Cross, Monroe and Prairie counties to secure workers to help bring in the crop.

The estimated total crop for Arkansas this year is about 1,500,000.

Alexander Is Certified

HEBER SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Cecil Lewis Alexander of Heber Springs was certified Saturday as Cleburne County state representative following a recount of votes in the Aug. 12 Democratic second primary.

The recount narrowed the winning margin of Alexander from 30 to 4 votes but failed to give Leonard Reed, his opponent, a victory. Reed had sought the recount.

Unofficial returns in the runoff election showed Alexander with 1,269 votes to 1,239 for Reed. The recount gave Alexander 1,254 votes to 1,250 for Reed.

Reed had said there was a possibility of human error in the first tabulation of the votes.

A note from Bill Caldwell, formerly of Hope, informs that his daughter, Karen, has been chosen one of the four Athens, Texas Jr. High B Majorettes.

The Junior band had 56 members and competition was very keen. However, Karen, had the highest rating of any to try out.

She was a Hope Jr. High majorette, Captain and Band Sweetheart last year. Also this past week the Caldwells visited Six Flags Over Texas and were very pleasantly surprised in meeting some Hope folks, E. P. Young Jr. and family.

It seems Tommy will be the first football player in Arkansas history to graduate as an architect.

Bollworms Are Hard to Control

Cotton bollworms have been very hard to control this year. In some fields they are in a position to reduce yields since at this late date the plant cannot replace lost bolls, says Wade Benefield, Associate County Agent.

Some recent research has indicated that you can use one pound of Methyl-Parathion per acre and get good control of bollworms. At this rate of application you set up a fumigating action which will kill the large worms which have been getting by.

Chargers Pull Game Out of the Fire

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

Associated Press Sports Writer

San Diego's Chargers came from behind twice Sunday to beat Oakland 33-27 and remain the last undefeated team in the American Football League exhibition campaign.

It climaxed a weekend that saw defending champion Houston take a 21-14 licking from once-beaten Buffalo and Denver win its first game, exhibition or league, from Dallas, 27-24, in the first overtime in the three-year history of the circuit.

San Diego was taking its third exhibition of the season. The Chargers have never lost one of the games that do not count in the standings.

Boston downed New York 17-10 in the other game of the week as Babe Parilli passed for one touchdown and ran for another while Gino Cappelletti booted a 42-yard field goal.

The exhibition schedule closes next weekend with two Friday night games—Denver vs. Oakland at Stockton, Calif., and Dallas vs. Houston at Miami—one Saturday afternoon tilt in which New York goes to San Diego and one Saturday night melee involving Buffalo and Boston at Boston.

Jack Kemp again was the man of the hour as San Diego beat Oakland. The charger quarterback passed 23 yards to Jim Kocourek for the tie-breaking touchdown in the final period. Oakland played on its own field or the first time with a crowd of 17,053 turning out.

Dallas and Denver were tied 24-24 at the end of regulation time at Fort Worth Friday night. So a sudden death period was added and Gene Mingo kicked a 17-yard field goal to give Denver its victory.

Houston was taking its first loss in 14 games but there was nothing fluky about it except that regular quarterback George Blanda, recovering from an operation, didn't get in until his understudy, Jack Lee, had had five passes intercepted. Buffalo beat Houston through the air with Warren Tabb throwing to Glenn Bass for two touchdowns and Wayne Crow passing for the third.

Money for Water Pollution Study

WASHINGTON (AP)—Allocation of $300,000 for a study of water pollution in the Arkansas and Red River basins was recommended by Army Engineers Saturday.

The engineers asked that two experimental plants be built in Texas to determine their effectiveness in water quality improvement. One of the plants would be at Prairie Dog Town Fork of Red River near Estelline. The other would be on the south fork of the Wichita River near Guthrie.

Engineers said the tests would be designed to control chloride and other pollutants in the waters of the Arkansas and Red Rivers, which drain over 250,000 square miles in Oklahoma, Arkansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Kansas, Texas, Mississippi and Louisiana.

Today's schedule:
1:45 p.m.—Fairbanks, Alaska vs. Winoski, Vt., loser eliminated.

it exist on Venus? Most scientists doubt that life exists there because of steaming temperatures near the surface.

Even though the early stages of flight were successful, the gold- and silver-coated spacecraft had many hurdles to clear—such as temperature variations and radiation effects—as it zips along through the dangerous unknowns of space.

Another big question mark was how well it would send back information across great distances. America's Lioneer V sun satellite now holds the record, having beamed back signals from 22½ millions miles in space.

If Mariner 2 does not succeed, the United States must wait until 1964 before Venus again is in a favorable position for a launching.

The first American Venus shot, Mariner 1, failed last July 22 when a faulty guidance equation caused the Atlas Agena B booster to waver from its course and it was destroyed by the range safety officer about five minutes after launching. The Soviet Union shot a probe within 62,000 miles of Venus last year but received no information because of a dead radio.

Open Heart Surgery Is Successful

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A ten-year-old Little Rock youth is a happy, normal boy today because of open heart surgery.

And his parents say prayer, medical research and the help of the Arkansas Heart Association combined to make it possible.

The youth is John Hanson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hanson Sr., whose congenital heart disease was not discovered until after he had finished the first grade.

John's heart had a hole in it that leaked large amounts of blood. His parents said for a long time neither they nor medical specialists had any idea what ailed their son.

He went through the normal childhood diseases of chicken pox and measles than had pneumonia, double pneumonia scarlet fever and asthma. His recovery from these was erratic, the Hansons said, and even when he was "well," he would tire easily.

The Hansons said John had many ups and downs, both physically and mentally, before his condition was discovered. He cried easily and wasn't able to play as hard as a normal youngster. At times his thinking would be almost brilliant and he would breeze through his lessons. At other times he would seem to forget things he knew easily a short time before.

John's condition was discovered in the summer of 1960 and that is when the tri-part tale of prayer, medical ability and help of others began.

During the following year John armed with knowledge of his condition, began to slow down his activities. He and his father took long walks in the woods. When he returned to school he worked and played at a lesser pace.

In October he went through a series of tests at University Medical Center. The operation was scheduled for the following May.

When May and the day for the operation came, John developed measles again. The operation was re-set for June.

Meanwhile, the Arkansas Heart Association had gone to work to assure that there would be plenty of blood for the transfusions necessary during the operation.

On June 29, the operation was done and John came through without a hitch.

John is proud that he has, thanks to the Heart Association, the blood of bankers, clerks, policemen, air-men, salesmen and others in his veins now. But he and his parents are equally proud of a large scar that covers what is now a sound healthy heart.

Her Problem: Home-making or Missionary Work?

By HELEN WODEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: I love life yet feel God wants me to be a missionary. My problem is to combine that career with my love for a boy. Time is running out. I shall be 19 in another year. My parents are wonderful, my job congenial. I've been promoted twice since I came to it from high school. I am healthy and, so people say, pretty.

The boy I love is 19, handsome and has a job with a future. His parents think the world of me and I of them. We floated on cloud nine till his firm transferred him to another city, leaving me behind with a broken heart. He drank, smoked and hit the primrose path with girls, then airmailed special delivery remorseful letters declaring eternal love after silences for weeks—sometimes months.

During these lonely periods I became absorbed in church work. I belong to a Protestant group which sends missionaries to benighted lands. Their zeal and singleness of purpose fired me. At last I knew what God wanted me to do—be His missionary.

Then my boy friend came home, again begged my forgiveness and, in the past two months, has dated no one else. Of course I'm happy but how long will this last? Missionary work though hard, is constant. Should I trust him with my heart once again? If I could only be sure I would wait forever.

I'm a born homemaker, mature for my age and, as you've probably guessed from this letter, possess a serious disposition. Ever tugging at my conscience is the thought that God destined me for missionary work. I could prepare myself for it by entering the theological school at 19 and graduating at 22. I love this boy yet I love God. How can I reconcile the two?—Cloistered Maiden

Dear Cloistered: Your letter is refreshing. If only to show that there are still some thinking, serious-minded teen-agers left in this world. But I fear you're a little too serious and that, should become a missionary, it would be more to protect yourself from the callousness of this harum-scarum boy than for love of God. Your church would be catching you on the rebound. Stay and fight it out within the framework of the life you know, and in the doing you will develop the strength of character which truly expressed love of God. Remember: He wants us to be happy.

Have fun, date other boys, plug ahead on your job. Eventually you will meet the right boy, marry, bear children and be the fine wife world is coming. After spending a year finding the right girl, we are about to break up through no fault of our own. County boundaries have recently been surveyed, thus splitting our county into two with a separate high school for each half. My girl's going to one, I to the other. Because of this political reshuffling, I may never see her again! What can I do?—D.

Dear Helen: The end of my

Dear D.: Don't be silly. The course of true love never runs smoothly nor for that matter does life itself. All the more reason for keeping in touch with your girl and showing some initiative. Start by dating her now for the Homecoming dance. If you really care, nothing can keep you apart.

Dear Helen: I am 16 and soon to be married to a man of 25 whom I do not love. My parents, especially my mother, say I must do this in order to give my expected child a name. Also, she wants a grandchild. Don't you think it would be far better for me to place the baby for adoption and remain single? Mama won't listen to me. Maybe she will to you. —P. M. T.

Dear P. M. T.: I print your letter because it is similar to a hundred or more received this week. The decision is up to you and every pro and con should be thoroughly explored before you make up your mind. You have three alternatives: marriage to a man you claim you don't love; giving birth to an illegitimate child or submitting to an abortion. Naturally you resent being forced into a loveless marriage. As a consequence, your child as well as you may suffer, but this does not always follow. It is the baby's welfare, not yours, which must be considered. Having taken the step you did, you forfeited the right to put self first. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a list of people and agencies qualified to give you practical help. Does the boy in the case love you? Can he support a family?

Explorer of Arctic Dies at 82

HANOVER, N.H. (AP)—Vilhjalmur Stefansson, 82, one of the last sled dog explorers and also one of the world's foremost arctic scientists and historians, died Sunday.

The explorer, born in Manitoba of Icelandic parents, predicted years ahead of the fact that the North Pole would become a crossroads for air travel between America and Europe. He also foresaw that submarines would travel under the arctic ice pack.

Stefansson, who once thought of making poetry a career, spent 10 winters and 13 summers in the Far North in the 15 years prior to his retirement in 1919 from active exploration. Since 1947 he had been arctic consultant at Dartmouth College and curator of the Stefansson collection of polar literature.

Stefansson suffered a stroke a week ago at a dinner for an old friend visiting Dartmouth, Eske Brum, chief of Denmark's Ministry for Greenland.

Between 1913 and 1918 Stefansson commanded a Canadian expedition that spent five years north of the Arctic Circle. On this journey he discovered five islands claimed for Canada. Later the Canadian board on geographical names named an island off the northeast shore of Victoria Island for Stefansson.

In 1941 the 61-year-old bachelor married Evelyn Schwartz Baird, his research assistant. Mrs. Stefansson now is librarian of the Stefansson collection. There are no children.

Democrats Refuse to Seat a GOP

MORRILLTON, Ark. (AP)—The Conway County Democratic Committee has refused to seat an elected member whom they say has voted Republican and acted as a judge in elections of that party.

Jess Boudra of the Solgachia community was elected to the committee in the July 18 primary.

Four days later W. J. McClung Jr. of Morrilton, a judge in the 1960 Democratic election, petitioned the committee to deny Boudra the seat because of his GOP activity.

The committee claimed Saturday Boudra voted for the Republican presidential nominee in 1960 and acted as a judge in that election.

The committee first refused to seat Boudra after McClung issued his petition. Boudra then asked the Conway County Circuit Court to certify his election, which it did.

When questioned by the committee Saturday, Boudra admitted serving as a Republican election judge, but said not enough GOP members could be found so some democrats acted in that capacity.

Boudra indicated he may appeal the committee's decision to the circuit court.

You have three alternatives: marriage to a man you claim you don't love; giving birth to an illegitimate child or submitting to an abortion. Naturally you resent being forced into a loveless marriage. As a consequence, your child as well as you may suffer, but this does not always follow. It is the baby's welfare, not yours, which must be considered. Having taken the step you did, you forfeited the right to put self first. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a list of people and agencies qualified to give you practical help. Does the boy in the case love you? Can he support a family?

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper. Helpful leaflets available. Write for "Hasty Marriage."

you are destined to be. Enjoy the life God gave you. To run out on it is to sell Him short!

Dear Helen: The end of my world is coming. After spending a year finding the right girl, we are about to break up through no fault of our own. County boundaries have recently been surveyed, thus splitting our county into two with a separate high school for each half. My girl's going to one, I to the other. Because of this political reshuffling, I may never see her again! What can I do?—D.

Dear D.: Don't be silly. The course of true love never runs smoothly nor for that matter does life itself. All the more reason for keeping in touch with your girl and showing some initiative. Start by dating her now for the Homecoming dance. If you really care, nothing can keep you apart.

Dear Helen: I am 16 and soon to be married to a man of 25 whom I do not love. My parents, especially my mother, say I must do this in order to give my expected child a name. Also, she wants a grandchild. Don't you think it would be far better for me to place the baby for adoption and remain single? Mama won't listen to me. Maybe she will to you. —P. M. T.

Dear P. M. T.: I print your letter because it is similar to a hundred or more received this week. The decision is up to you and every pro and con should be thoroughly explored before you make up your mind. You have three alternatives: marriage to a man you claim you don't love; giving birth to an illegitimate child or submitting to an abortion. Naturally you resent being forced into a loveless marriage. As a consequence, your child as well as you may suffer, but this does not always follow. It is the baby's welfare, not yours, which must be considered. Having taken the step you did, you forfeited the right to put self first. ## Rainmaker Goes to McCrory

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Working

under a series of self-imposed and one final deadline, rainmaker

Horner Berry hoped to bring much needed moisture to McCrory today.

Berry, who received $500 from

Little Rock Radio Station KLRB

Saturday after he sent out his rainmaking equipment and predicted almost to the hour the time it would rain in the Little Rock area, has contracted to produce moisture for McCrory by midnight.

He originally said he would produce rain for that area by 2 p.m.

Saturday, but that time passed without a drop falling.

Berry said he got a late start because his "rather crude" equipment had to be cooled off and cleaned of ashes. He said he didn't
